BEST MAGAZINE ARTICLE—FIRST QUARTER 1952

Long before the ballots were issued to ascertain the best Lincoln magazine article published during the first quarter of 1952, Lincoln students in general had begun to call attention to the interesting monograph appearing in the February issue of The National Geographic Magazine. The Foundation advisory group confirmed with their votes what was apparently the people's choice and selected Ralph Gray's excellent geographic contribution "Vacation Tour Through Lincoln Land" to receive first honors. Mr. Gray's story is profusely illustrated with colored pictures and will undoubtedly encourage many families to tour the Lincoln country this summer.

Authors who contributed monographs which were published during the first quarter of 1952 are listed below with the subject of the discussion and source following the name:
